

GREEKS READY BUT BULGARS BLOCK MOVE

Only By Land Attack Against Turkey Would Greece Enter The War, Says Rumored Note Sent To Russian Government

BULGARIA THREATENS TO JOIN TEUTONICS

London Reports Negotiations Proceeding and Calls Threat of Bulgars a Bluff—Ready To Grant Ferdinand Good Deal

(Associated Press by Federal Wireless.)
WASHINGTON, June 20.—Bulgaria's price for entry into the war as an ally of the Powers of the Quadruple Entente is such that it is practically impossible of payment, according to unofficial statements made in diplomatic circles here yesterday, while any attempt to invade Bulgarian territory for an attack upon Turkey, without the full terms being agreed to, will drive Bulgaria into taking up arms as an ally of the Teutonics.

According to the reports in circulation, not officially vouched for but generally believed, the Greek government, in a recent note to the Russian government, stated that the only manner in which Greece could take a share in the fighting on the side of the Allies would be the opportunity of sending a land force to Turkey through the strip of Bulgarian territory that separates the land of the Hellenes from that of the Teutonics. This is the strip leading to the Aegean, recently acquired by Bulgaria from Turkey through the terms of the Treaty of Bucharest, which ended the second Balkan war.

What Bulgaria Asks
In Bulgarian circles it is stated that Bulgaria will not agree to any such move unless her terms are agreed to, which include the rounding out of the Bulgarian borders by cessions of territory from Greece on the Aegean, from Serbia on the west and from Rumania on the Black Sea, in addition to a share in whatever partitioning is to be done with Turkey in Europe.

If the Greeks should attempt to despatch an armed force across Bulgarian territory into Turkey, says the Bulgarian reports, before the Allies have met the Bulgarian terms, Bulgaria will consider it an act of war and will throw her strength into the side of Germany and Austria and will attack Serbia and send reinforcements to the aid of Turkey on the Gallipoli Peninsula.

Reports from London indicate that this suggestion is being advanced as a bluff by the Bulgarian statesmen, in order to hasten compliance with the Bulgarian terms, which are admitted to be stiff, but not to the extent as are reported here.

GERMANS COMPLAIN OF RECRUITING DONE IN THE ISLANDS

(Associated Press by Federal Wireless.)
CHICAGO, June 20.—Acting under instructions from the department of justice, federal officials here yesterday intercepted a squad of twenty-six recruits for the British army, bound from San Francisco to New York, in charge of Lieut. Kenneth Croft of the British army. All the recruits are Englishmen, but each denies that he has yet enlisted.

Warrants, which had been sworn out, charging the recruits and the British officer with violation of the neutrality of the United States, were not served and the party was allowed to proceed.

The department of justice is investigating charges made by the German consul general in San Francisco that the recruiting of men for the British army is being systematically carried on throughout California and Hawaii.

FRENCH ADVANCE IN UPPER ALSACE

General Offensive By Allies Net Small Gains Along the Front in France

(Associated Press by Federal Wireless.)
PARIS, June 20.—There has been general fighting at many points along the front during the past forty-eight hours, with the French and British on the offensive from close to the Swiss border in Alsace to the Flemish line. The French have made a notable advance in Upper Alsace, driving their positions to the banks of the Fecht River, on the valley leading to Colmar, the important railroad center twenty miles north of Mulhouse.

In the West, the Fort de Buval, occupied by the Germans on May 9, has been regained, while the trencher on the slope east of the spur of Notre Dame de Lorette have been pushed and captured, the three hundred Germans surviving the French attack surrendering. This ground has been organized and a counter attack has been driven back.

A German offensive east of Lunville has gained for them possession of the village of Embermenil.

North of Arras the German offensive has been checked, while counter attacks by the French have advanced the lines around Souchez to subject the German positions there to a fire from three sides.

CAPTURE OF GERMAN U-29 IN DISPUTE

(Associated Press by Federal Wireless.)
LONDON, June 20.—The German press, in violation of the recent sinking of Swedish and Norwegian steamers by submarines, declares that the U-29, which was sunk in March, the crew being taken prisoners by the British, was damaged and sunk by a British steamer, flying the Swedish flag, which replied to the German hail to stop by swerving and cutting the German craft in two.

The Admiralty, in response to this, yesterday announced that the U-29 was captured by a British warship and was not sunk in the manner described in Germany. The name of the British ship which brought the crew of the U-29 in as prisoners has not yet been made known.

DON'T NEGLECT YOUR FAMILY

When you fail to provide your family with a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy at the season of the year, you are neglecting them as well as yourself. It is sure to be prevalent, and it is too dangerous a malady to be trifled with. This is especially true if there are children in the family. A dose or two of this remedy will place the trouble within control and perhaps save a life, or keep a child from being sent to the hospital. Chamberlain, Smith & Co., Ltd., agents for Hawaii.

Boy Solomon Swipes Auto At Baby Luau

Wherefor Twelve-Year-Old Native Lad Reposes Penitently In Prison Cell

SOLOMON KAPAHU, a twelve-year-old native boy, was held at the police station last night on a charge of having driven off with an automobile belonging to the Schumann Carriage Company, and in the possession, for the time being, of a visitor from Hilo.

It is doubtful if the original Solomon, in all his wisdom, could have cranked up and set in motion a 1913 touring car, yet this is just what his little Hawaiian namesake did yesterday.

There was a baby luau somewhere up Manoa Valley yesterday afternoon and a number of visitors attended and automobiles, among them the visitor and Albert H. Lucas, a well-known young man about town.

Lucas' Success: Machine Gone
The luau was a great success, the pua being kaluaed to a turn and the trimmings being of corresponding excellence.

The Hilo man and Lucas, waked out on the roadway to stretch their legs. Judge their surprise when their car was nowhere to be seen.

A small boy volunteered the information that "three other boys had gone maula in the car and that he had refused to take him along—the big slob, as he feebly put it.

Lucas hurried maula as fast as his legs could carry him. The road was in point of unevenness like unto the road to Dublin, made famous in song and story, and to make matters worse the going was, as the turf writers would put it, on the heavy side.

Near Jimmy Boyd's place, Lucas came upon the car, with Solomon at the wheel, making a gallant effort to turn around. His progress was hindered by the fact that the breaks were on, as the proper driver of the car had left them.

When the trio in the car saw Lucas they stood not on the order of their going, but went quickly. In other words, they beat it.

Lucas gave chase and managed to grab Solomon, the other two youngsters getting away.

Solomon was driven to the police station by Lucas, weeping copiously. He begged Lucas to excuse him, just this once, and promised to be a much wiser Solomon in future.

Lucas, however, thought that the young man should be taught a lesson, and Solomon was hustled below, after putting up a game struggle with the turnkey.

One of the other boys in the car is said to be a son of the giver of the luau.

EIGHTEEN MONTHS FOR ONE PERJURER

Ferreira, Already in Jail Gets New Term of Imprisonment

Peter Ferreira, charged with perjury, two indictments of this nature having been returned against him recently by the territorial grand jury, pleaded guilty to one charge yesterday and was sentenced by Judge Ashford to eighteen months' imprisonment. The second charge was nolle prossed yesterday.

Some months ago Ferreira was sentenced, also by Judge Ashford, to a term of imprisonment for stealing automobiles. While on the witness stand in this case, Ferreira attempted to prove an alibi—that he was somewhere in Kaimuki at the same time the arresting officer swore he saw him over in Kalihi. It was on the testimony Ferreira gave in trying to prove the alibi that the grand jury indicted him.

There is too much perjury in these courts," said Judge Ashford yesterday, as he was about to sentence Ferreira to an additional term. "It must cease. People who commit perjury are worse than those who poison wells, because it is poisoning the streams of justice at their very fountain heads or sources."

"The courts cannot possibly administer justice, and the community, the government and society cannot possibly endure if suits at law, civil or criminal, are to be decided upon perjured testimony. I propose to impose a sentence in this case which, while falling far short of the severity which I might exercise, nevertheless, is a substantial one, and example to others of your disposition."

Judge Ashford then gave Ferreira, a confessed perjurer, eighteen months.

CHILDREN DIE IN A BURNING HOUSE

Two children were burned to death at Waiman, Hawaii, June 11, according to the current issue of the Hawaii Herald. They were Japanese, a boy of four and a girl of five. Their home caught fire while the parents were away. It was not known that the children were within until their mothers returned from taking food to the fathers in the fields. Then the bodies were found, arms about each other. Escape of the children was prevented by fire in the room to which the only door led, and a window was too high for them to climb from it. It is believed the fire started by the children playing with matches.

Bryan Attacks Attitude of Roosevelt and Taft

APPEALS TO LABORING MEN TO DENOUNCE MILITARISM AND WAR—IS CRYSTALLIZING PEACE SENTIMENT OF THE COUNTRY IN SUPPORT OF PRESIDENT WILSON'S EFFORT TO AVOID BEING DRAWN INTO THE GREAT CONFLICT

(Associated Press by Federal Wireless.)
NEW YORK, June 20.—A vigorous attack upon Former Presidents Roosevelt and Taft, was launched last night by William Jennings Bryan, former secretary of state, who declared that both Roosevelt and Taft represented that misguided section of the community which stood for the use of force in the settlement of international disputes. They were the sponsors, he said, for those organizations which would commit the country to warlike measures under the guise of peace preparations.

Mr. Bryan was addressing a peace meeting called by the labor leaders of New York, and it was to his audience, as laboring men, that he addressed his words. He stated that the laboring men of the United States, as in any other country, had the greatest interest of any class in the preservation of peace, because they must recognize the fact that war brought in its train an enforced idleness in all industries, an increase in the taxes which the laboring men must pay and obligations which the laboring men must assume. Among such obligations forced upon the laboring men of a nation at war is that of being first called to arms and of being the ones who had to suffer the most in the aftermath.

Such policies as are today advocated by both Roosevelt and Taft are inimical to the true interests of the United States and directly opposed to the principles of international peace, for which the people of the United States stand.

"I am now beginning the crystallization of American sentiment in favor of peace," said the former secretary of state. "I am crystallizing that sentiment in support of President Wilson's efforts to settle the differences between the United States and the other countries arising out of the present war in Europe."

Mr. Bryan invited the laboring men present to go on record as protesting in the name of labor against any form of militarism, of which Theodore Roosevelt was so potential a factor.

Following Mr. Bryan's address, a resolution was passed which stated that all patent rights for the manufacture of firearms and other implements of war should be taken away from the control of the international capitalists who now hold them and should be given to the government, in order that war alarms and wars might not be brought about through the desires of the manufacturers of arms for the profits that war and preparation for war brought them.

TEUTONS OCCUPY GRODEK, CLAIMS VIENNA DESPATCH

(Associated Press by Federal Wireless.)
LONDON, June 20.—A laconic despatch from Vienna, unconfirmed by any despatches from either Petrograd or Berlin, states that the Teutons have broken through the Russian defenses at Grodek and have occupied that defending position before Lodz, while the Russians have also been driven from Komarno, some six miles south of Grodek.

In the absence of any Berlin despatches confirmatory of the Vienna claims, military critics here are disposed to doubt the report, claiming that the Russian positions before Grodek are strong and that it is improbable that they could have been forced after only twenty-four hours of fighting, however desperately the Teutons may have advanced.

Petrograd states that the Russians have been holding the Austro-Germans in check before Grodek and have driven on back the column which invaded Russia north of Siniawa and reached the outskirts of Tarnograd.

LARGE SCHOOLS OF AKULE SEEN BY FISHERMEN

Favorite Fish Reported To Be Running Off Windward Side Of Island Of Oahu

NEWS OF BIG CATCH IS EXPECTED DAILY

Lookout Provided With Flags Will Signal When Nets Should Be Cast Into Sea

Large schools of akule are reported off the windward side of the island and news of a big catch may be expected at any time, according to reports received from Punaluu, Kahanalu and Kahana.

That the fish are moving was evidenced a few weeks ago when Eugene Devauchelle of Pukou, Molokai, and his men surrounded a school of akule and made a catch of more than 20,000 fish which sold for a thousand dollars.

In fishing for akule unusually long nets are employed, some used at Hilo being 208 fathoms long, four fathoms deep, with meshes of four inches. These are made of No. 12 line twine and are worth about $100 each. Most of the nets used in akule-fishing, however, are about one-half the above dimensions and are worth about fifty dollars each.

Biggest Catches At Kahana

At Kahana, where the biggest catches of akule are made, a man is posted on the hill-side to watch the movements of the school of akule, which, owing to the color of the fish, looks like a red bank, and is more plainly visible from this elevated position than from the canoes.

This lookout is provided with a flag in each hand, with which he directs the movements of the fishermen in handling the nets.

When a school of akule has been surrounded the fishermen make a fire on the hillside, the smoke being a signal which may be seen almost as far as Kahana, that a school of akule has been made and that the fish are for sale at bargain prices.

The akule is a toothsome little fish and is, next to the ulua and amama, the most important food fish of Honolulu. In the market they retail as a rule at three or four medium-sized ones for a quarter.

The ihobe, a long, thin fish, usually a foot and a half in length, with a very sharp-pointed snout, arrives here about the same time as the malolo or flying fish, and the akule, and is sometimes captured in a similar net.

Malolo Common Specie

The malolo is a common specie around the island of Oahu, there being two species, the large malolo and the small puhiki. A large bag net with a flaring mouth and very fine mesh is employed in this fishery, being carried to the fishing ground piled on a large single canoe, or sometimes a double one.

The start is always made early in the morning, and a number of canoes usually go out together, many of the occupants being women, as no particular skill is required on the part of the general hands.

The work is directed by the kilo, or spy, who is generally in a light canoe manned by two or three hands.

He stands up on the cross-ties of his canoe, and shading his eyes with his hands, watches for signs of the school.

As soon as he discerns a strong ripple, which appears to indicate the presence of the school, he signals to the rest of the canoes, which at once surround it.

The kilo points out the best place for dropping the net and as soon as it is in place the canoes approach quickly, the men splashing the water with their hands and poles, and driving the school before them into the open bag.

Malolo Will Not Dive

The malolo will not dive to any depth, and are always found swimming very near the surface, so that, when completely surrounded by the canoes, they can be driven wherever wanted.

This fishing is called "lawala-o-kai-uli," blue-sea fishing, by the natives, as they frequently have to go several miles out to sea after the fish. A favorite malolo ground is off Waikiki. The malolo is frequently pounded up fine and eaten raw, mixed with other substances, the whole constituting an article of diet both appetizing and nourishing.

INTERVENTION IN MEXICO IS NEAR AT HAND

President Makes It Plain That His Patience Is Almost Exhausted, While No End To Trouble Appears To Be In Sight

CARRANZA ELIMINATED FROM CONSIDERATION

'First Chief' Leaves Vera Cruz, In Fear of An Uprising, While Obregon Takes His Army Away To Set Up New Leadership

(Associated Press by Federal Wireless.)
WASHINGTON, June 20.—Events are moving rapidly towards active intervention in Mexico by the armed forces of the United States. The patience of President Wilson is almost exhausted and the effect of his recent stern warning to the warring chieftains appears to be nil.

Unless the factions in Mexico show some speedy sign that they are making an earnest endeavor to get together for the restoration of peace, the United States must act. President Wilson allowed it to be known last night that he is determined either to act soon or the Mexican situation must immediately begin to clarify itself.

Carranza Cabinet Split

Yesterday's developments south of the Rio Grande indicate that the factions are as far away from a settlement of their disputes as ever. Adding to the complications has come a split in the Carranza cabinet, the first chief quarreling with his chief lieutenant, General Obregon, who has resigned and carried with him four members of the Carranza cabinet.

Carranza, himself, has shifted the headquarters of his government from Vera Cruz to the old fortress, San Juan de Ulua, in the harbor, which gives grounds to the reports that he is afraid of an uprising against him in the city of Vera Cruz, induced by the famine that has produced great suffering there.

It is reported that Obregon insisted that the four cabinet ministers who resigned remain in the cabinet, and that those members who dissented from them should be forced to resign. Carranza failed to back up Obregon, who therefore tendered his own resignation as leader of the Carranza forces in the field.

Eliminates First Chief

It is expected that this latest development will eliminate Carranza from further consideration in the settlement of the Mexican turmoil, as his army is much more loyal to Obregon than it has ever been to the nominal First Chief.

A coalition between Villa and Zapata for the formation of a government is now expected, while it is thought that Obregon will also set up a claim to the presidency and dispute possession of authority with the Villa Zapata junta.

Wilson Will Act

President Wilson made it plain last night that he will actively support the most reasonable Mexican faction and secure American cooperation to force a short end to tranquility in Mexico, if some speedy solution of the trouble does not come without American intervention.

Admiral Howard, who is with his flagship, the Colorado, near Guaymas, with the Raleigh and Chattanooga, transporting marines, is under orders to use his discretion as to landing an expedition for the protection of the foreigners in Yaquis valley threatened by the raiding Indians.

According to despatches from Nogales, General Maytorena, who is marching towards Yaquis valley, with a force of eight hundred and fifty Mexicans, has stated that he will resist the landing of any force from the American warships, but it is thought here that the Villa general will take no action against the Americans. Villa has nothing to gain by offering resistance and Maytorena has heretofore shown himself willing to abide by the policy of his chief.

CONGRESSMAN INQUIRES INTO NAVY NEEDS HERE

Congressman William D. Stephens of California, a prominent member of the committee on naval affairs in the lower house, has been combining business with pleasure on an extended visit to Honolulu. During the two weeks, Congressman Stephens has been in the city he has paid several visits to Pearl Harbor, has had several consultations with Admiral C. B. T. Moore and has worked earnestly and widely to secure all the information possible regarding the naval needs of the islands. When the next congress convenes Congressman Stephens will be one of the best informed men in the house on the needs of naval improvements in Hawaii and will have the information first hand. During his stay in Honolulu, Mr. Stephens is the house guest of his son-in-law, Lieut. Randolph T. Zane of the marine corps stationed at Pearl Harbor.
